

Undergraduate Licensure in School Social Work

UNCG Department of Social Work

Students interested in pursuing a career in school social work should consider applying for Licensure in School Social Work while a student in the BSW Program. The North Carolina Department of Public Instruction requires that all social workers hired for school social work positions must be licensed or be eligible to sign a provisional contract for School Social Work Licensure. Our social work program is not approved for what is termed “a Licensure Only Program in School Social Work” which means that we can only provide licensure to students who are in the program. Even alumni of the program cannot return and apply for this license. School social work is a very exciting and rewarding field of practice for those interested in working with elementary, middle, or high school level students and their families. Much of the work in this field involves preventive or early intervention work, which often increases the success of treatment services.

Students interested in applying for School Social Work Licensure will find the course requirement information on the following page. Professor Webb, Coordinator of the School Social Work Licensure Program, meets with all BSW students in junior fall semester to review the procedures for applying to this program and answer any questions. After this session, applications will be available online to all students interested in applying to this program. The Application for Undergraduate School Social Work Licensure must be completed by Friday, January 17th, 2020 of the spring semester of the junior year. Students accepted into this Licensure Program will have their paperwork forwarded to the UNCG Teacher Education Program and the Co-Directors of Field. Placements in school settings for the senior year internship will be arranged by the Co- Directors of Field.

Students who have further questions about this School Social Work Licensure Program can e-mail Professor Beth Webb at edwebb@uncg.edu
